

1st in series – Richard Dutton

Enjoy this beautiful, limited edition, collectible print by well-known Ottumwa artist Richard Dutton. This colorful picture depicts the Indian Hills Community College Library and Art Gallery.

Dutton, a former IHCC art instructor, generously donated his time, talent and materials for this fund-raising effort. He graduated with a B.S. degree from Truman State University in Kirksville, Missouri. He then received his M.A. from the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls, Iowa.

2nd in series – Mark McWhorter

This colorful picture, by Ottumwa artist Mark McWhorter, depicts the Bennett Student Services Center on the IHCC Ottumwa campus.

McWhorter has been a full-time instructor of studio art and art history since 1980. He also directs the Indian Hills Art Gallery and oversees the Indian Hills Art Collection. He holds a B.A. and M.A. from Kentucky's Morehead State University.

3rd in series – Wendell Mohr

This is an exquisite watercolor view of the Hellyer Student Life Center, created by Wendell Mohr. This view depicts the pond along the back of the Hellyer Center on the Ottumwa campus, a popular location for students to enjoy quiet time. In the background is Trustee Hall.

Mohr, the only Iowan holding a Signature designation with the American Watercolor Society, is known to be an alchemist of the sublime, transforming traditional subjects into contemporary perfection.

4th in series – Mary von Schrader

This is a beautiful print of the grotto area on the IHCC Ottumwa campus, painted by Ottumwa artist Mary von Schrader. The picture illustrates not only the grotto area, but also the walking path of the bridge and stream in front of the IHCC Administration Building. The golden effect of the sun is shown during the springtime, when daffodils are blooming and trees are budding.

Von Schrader uses vibrant colors to achieve subtle results in her paintings. She has an instinctual way of capturing effects that other artists wish they could achieve. Von Schrader is well known for her paintings of the Okoboji area of Iowa, including the amusement park, old fisherman's wharf, lake regattas, and local cottages.

5th in series – Gin Lammert

This print captures a colorful, exquisite view of the Courtship Sculpture with Efner Academic Wing and St. John Auditorium in the background. The 1995 sculpture, by artist Christopher Bennett, is entitled "An Old, Old Story" depicting a courtship within the Sauk-Fox Tribe.

Local artist Gin Lammert, known primarily for custom art work, has generously donated this exclusive piece to help IHCC students. Lammert is adept at various styles of media, from precision pencil drawings in the classic tradition to mood-evoking pastels and oils reminiscent of the impressionists. Her award-winning art has been described as "treasures of the heart" by private and corporate collectors alike. She has a few rare pieces signed as "Gin South," a collection of work as "Gin Sorak" and the remainder as "Gin Lammert."

6th in series – Pat Wilkinson

This print is of the courtyard outside the IHCC Dining Hall. The oriental red maples with the library and art gallery in the background depict the beauty, care, and serenity of the Ottumwa campus.

Local artist Pat Wilkinson has used her talent with watercolors to create this amazing print for the Indian Hills Foundation. Pat has painted for many years, exhibiting her work at art festivals and in competitions, winning abundant awards. She has shared her gift with so many by teaching adult education classes at IHCC, giving private lessons in her home, working with a group of seniors at a local church, and now by generously donating this print.

7th in series – Richard Dutton

The "Indian Hills Waterfall" print captures a magnificent and colorful view of the waterfall that was built on the Indian Hills Campus in 2012. The Advanced Technology Center and Warrior Junction appear in the background. This gorgeous campus location is often selected as the background for photos of graduates, families, wedding couples, and others.

This print is the second in this series by well-known artist Richard Dutton. He was an Indian Hills' art instructor from 1967 to 1999, first on the Centerville Campus and later on the Ottumwa Campus. He has stayed active in his retirement and has continued to provide his talents and services in assisting the Foundation with fundraising efforts.

To order art prints, contact Jenaya Pilcher or you can stop by the Indian Hills Foundation Office, located in the Bennett Building on the Ottumwa campus.
